MIZPAH

A Closer Look

Consider, won't you, this 1963-64 MIZPAH a microscopic study of the year in review? We would like to enlarge the picture of student enlightenment and companionship as well as view the many special events such as plays, dances, and the Prom. The complete picture is one of students discovering new talents and interests, creating new ideas, and establishing themselves as mature individuals.

We have used the scientist's microscope to symbolize the idea, "A Closer Look." Think, won't you, of each section as a microscopic slide for your study. Adjust the eyepiece now and turn on the viewing light; let's begin the closer look.

Administration sets curriculum and school policies

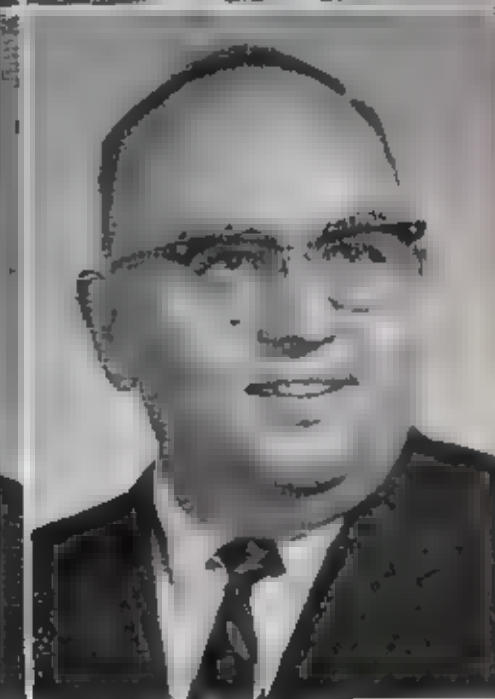

The Board of Education is composed of men of various professions and vocations. Since they are sincerely interested in the educational welfare of the students, they assure us that pertinent and necessary policies are adopted.

School secretaries are an essential part of the school system. During one day's work, they may type several letters, issue special permits, and inform students of messages.

Our secretaries, being always alert, cheerful, and ready to serve others, form a type of high school information center, which is both appreciated and vital.

Government—History

The twenty-one persons listed on the staff of Mount Gilead High School boast a total of 262 years of overall experience. Of these years, 113 of them were served at Mount Gilead.

Fifteen hold Bachelor degrees with four holding Master degrees and two are nearing completion of the MA degree. Twenty different colleges are represented by this group.

The versatility and educational backgrounds of these teachers are two indications of the quality of instruction in the Mount Gilead High School.

Many people are involved in behind-the-scene

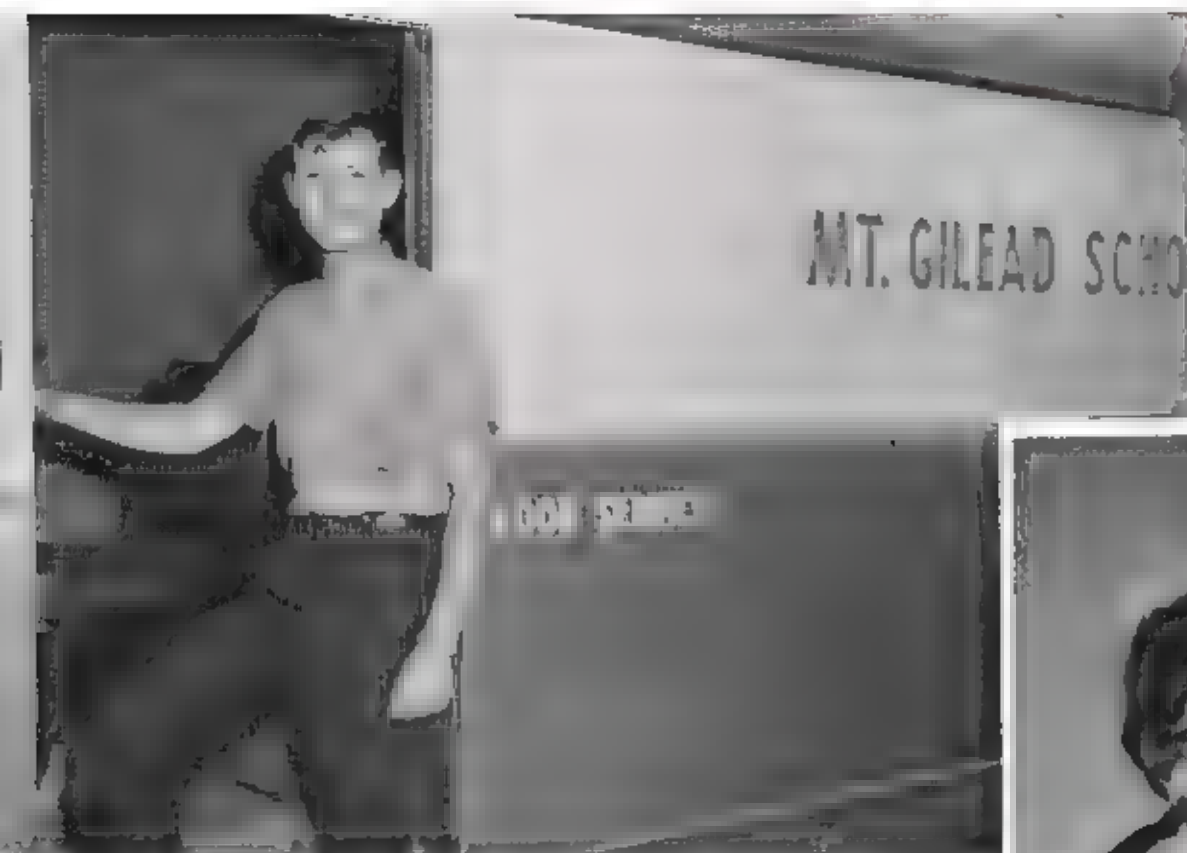

Mount Gilead Teachers Association Officers: Martha Hubbert, vice president, Sarah Hubbard, treasurer, Josephine Gerhardt, president, Florence Clouse, secretary, and Bernice Richardson, member-at-large.

PTA Officers below are: Brinkman, secretary, Robert Chapman, vice president, and Bernice Southard, president. Joe Hubbert is treasurer.

Seniors face the future with mixed emotions

Top scholars of the graduating class—Sue Bailey and Roger Craven are “up in the air” over graduation festivities.

Donned in their trade-mark “his and her sweaters,” our “senior couple”—Anne Logan and Tom Cotton, engage in one of their serious discussions.

Hawk Dalrymple, above, crams for an exam during the hectic life of a senior.

Karen Rizer is certainly intent on getting her message across to Max Heimlich in study hall in the above pix.

Language is the true art

Left—Is it any wonder Ken Gerhardt was elected president of Student Council when he gives forth with such orations as in speech class.

Right—Virginia Wieland points to a city on a French map which is the home of her pen pal. Carol Kimball, Linda Baughman, and Jo Anne Minton await their turns to designate the homes of their French pen pals.

Left—Sophomores enrolled in French II study their scripts as Mr. Miller monitors the master control panel.

One major project of English II was the study of SILAS MARNER. Pictured at right are students with posters and articles and posters prepared by them for use in carrying out the story. Girls are: Sandy Kubba, Vickie Ashbrook, Kay Hardy Linda Thomas, Mary Conant, Mary Staley, Lynn Owen, and Linda Fritz. Front—Jill Matson.

Boys who brought articles to aid in presentation are: Phil Courtney, Roger Axtelm, Les Malone, Wayne Hollingsworth, Jerry Bodman, Ed Sayers, and Tom Smith. Front—Ambrus Ferguson.

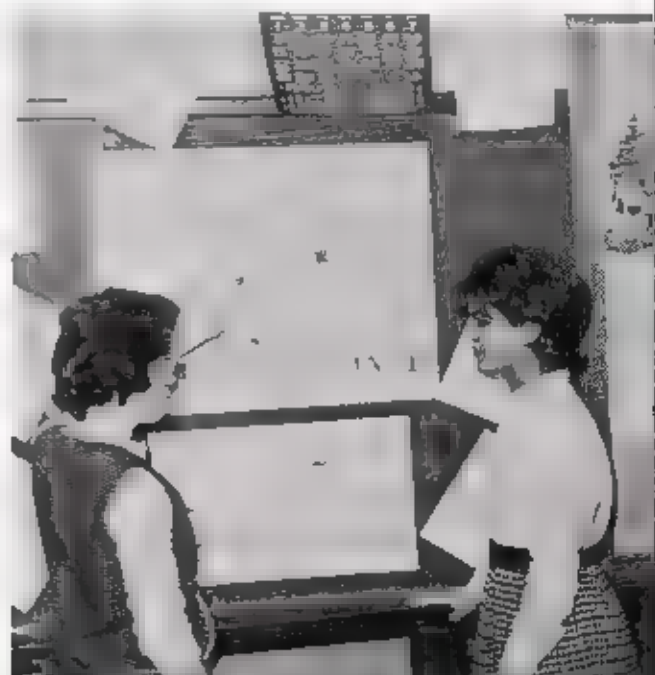

New skills, widened political interest, and physical

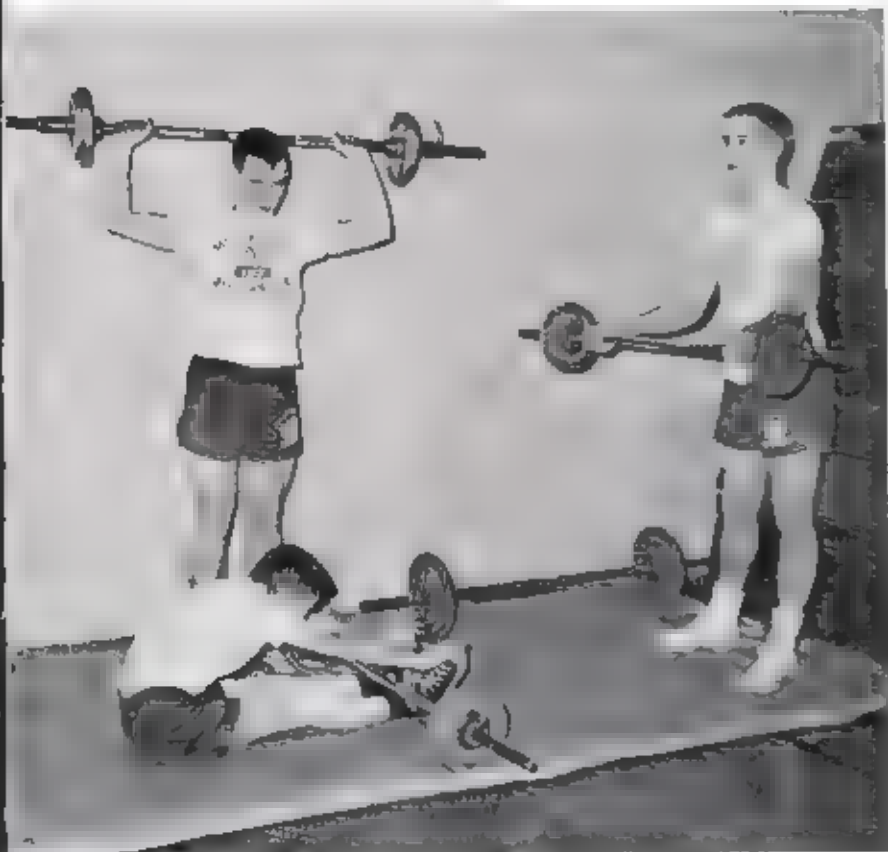

Highlight of the year for social studies classes probably was the trip to Otterbein college where students participated in a mock Republican convention. As can be seen by the placards, Mount Gilead students were for Lodge.

A knowledge of Math and Science is necessary in an age

Left—Judy McHugh watches Mary Anne Brown replace a loose toothpick on a reindeer in the Christmas display that the girls constructed for geometry class.

Right—Vickie Ashbrook and Gary Kincade, geometry students prove that their course comes in handy when it comes to making decorations for a Christmas tree.

Right—Shirley Rathliff and Jim Ault are not quite sure they see in the microscopes exactly what Mrs. Alvey says they should see during biology lab.

Above—Keith High displays his tack box that he will use when he shows his projects at the fairs.

Above—Christmastime brings good things to eat and the freshman home economics class believes in being in style. Marsha Baughman and Judy Phillips place cookies on the table while Gloria Redmon, Bonnie Steck, and Alice Mosier tend to other cooking chores.

Right—Keith Sterritt, local florist, explains to advance home economics girls proper proportions for flower arrangements. Doris Chapman, Mary Haenszel, who placed first in the flower arrangement contest judged by Mr. Sterritt, Kathie Gompf, and Cheryl Gattshall listen to his instructions.

"Practice makes perfect"

A little extra practice on some difficult passages for the French horns is in process at left for Phil Shirk and Garry Casto with Mr. David assisting.

A scene, such as the one at right, takes place in the auditorium each day during eighth period as Mr. David directs the high school choir.

Mr. Picklesimer's first-year typing class works like demons on those budgets to get them in on time and beat the deadline.

in Music and Business

In the bulletin board poster at right that Becky Brehm and Sandy Daugherty are finishing, shorthand replaces the fabled diamond as a girl's best friend.

Betty Evans, Diana McCreary, and Sue Evans complete letters dictated from an IBM Executary transcriber. Each girl in office practice was required to complete a three-week session on the machine.

Sharon Johnson sets the scene of the playlet enacted during a telephone conversation between Carla Osborne and Evelyn Ryan. Sandy Daugherty, switchboard operator, gives the girls the busy signal once in awhile as the student learns the proper use of the telephone via aid of a tele-trainer.

"Not by might, nor by power, but by My Spirit saith the Lord of Hosts," is the motto of the World YWCA, of which our local Y-Teen organization is a part. The Y-Teens have three basic goals: "to grow as a person," to grow in friendship with people of all races, religions, and nationalities," and "to grow in knowledge and love of God." The Y-Teen purpose which has grown out of the YWCA purpose, is "to build a fellowship of women and girls devoted to the task of realizing in our common life those ideals of personal and social living to which we are committed by our faith as Christians."

Each year, in order to further world understanding, the organization sponsors outstanding club members for a tour of the United Nations building in New York City.

Y-Teen colors are blue and white; the emblem being a triangle with YWCA inscribed on it. Initial club membership last fall was 108.

actual teaching experiences in the classroom

The FTA (Future Teachers of America), established in 1937 at an NEA meeting in Detroit, has been an active organization in Mount Gilead since 1957, when it was founded by Mr. Paul Furniss.

Consisting of forty-one members, the organization allows the individual to decide if his interest in the teaching profession is genuine.

Each year the organization, headed by Martha Hubbert, presents a scholarship to a deserving student who aspires to become a teacher.

Black, white, and flame red are the FTA colors; the organization's emblem is a shield upon which rests a symbolic of the lamp of learning.

Leadership, cooperation, and community spirit are essential to the well being of every person. The FFA (Future Farmers of America) enables high school boys who are interested in agriculture or related occupations to obtain training important to this field.

This year the club received gold awards in the state chapter contest, parliamentary procedure contest, and top secretary and treasurer's books in a four-county area.

There are 25 members participating in the club this year.

The VAC (Varsity Athletic Club) strives to promote interest in athletics, leadership, and sportsmanship.

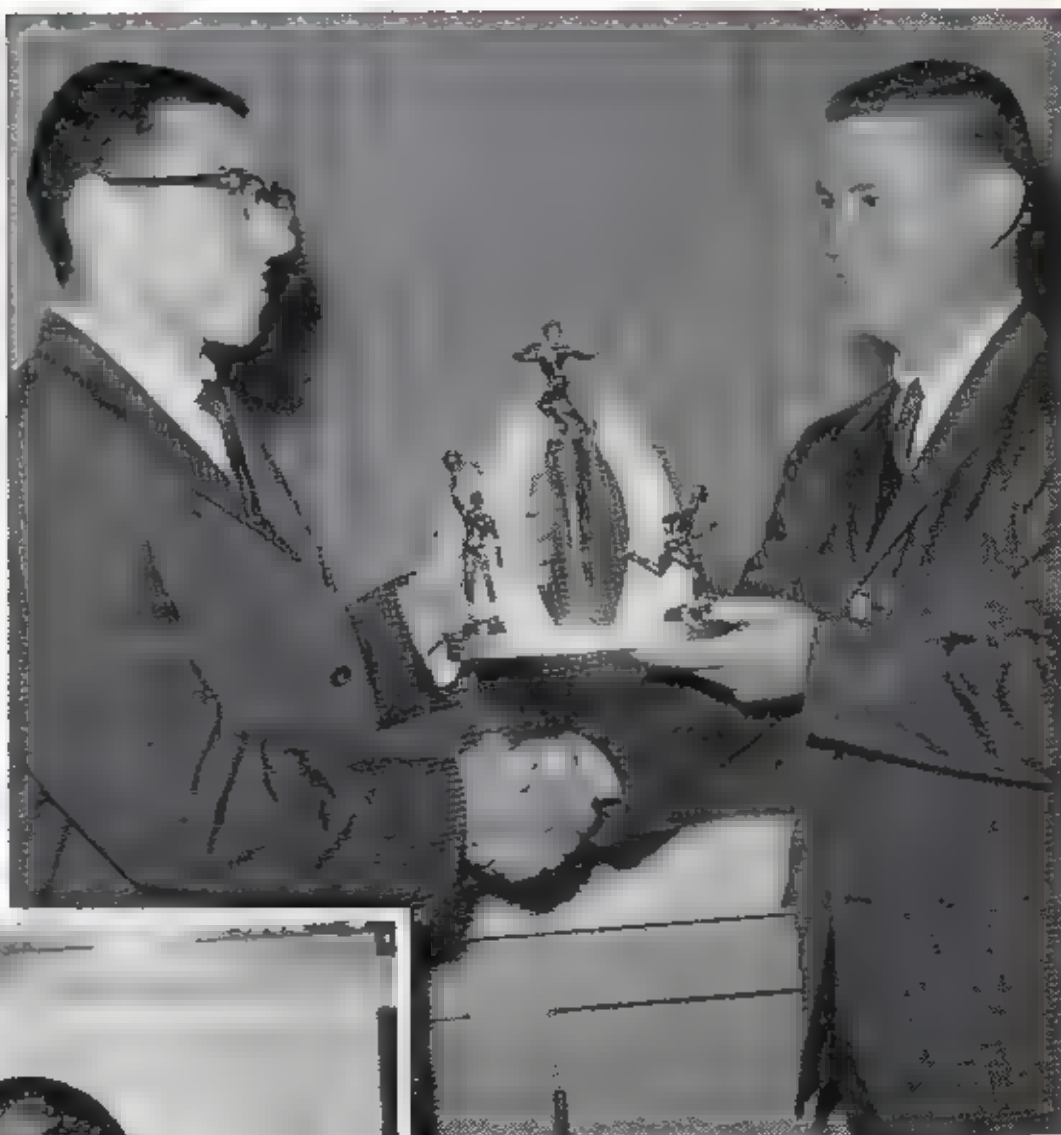

Each year the club presents an athlete-of-the-year award to the student who has excelled in all sports.

This year, the VAC also initiated a scholarship for $100 for an outstanding college-bound athlete.

"Act well your part"

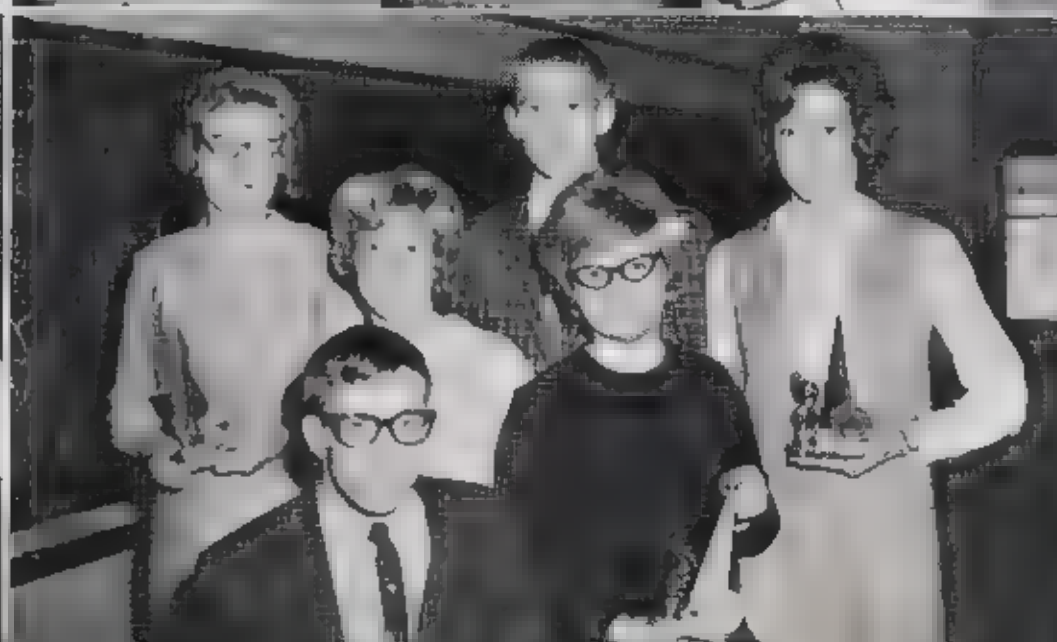

The theatre has always proved a source of cultural enlightenment and achievement.

In 1960, Mr. Dorman Picklesimer established the local chapter of the National Thespian Society.

Since that time, the club, with a present membership of 42, has yearly presented three one-act plays to appreciative audiences. Also included in the Thespian program are several oral interpretative readings.

The purpose of the National Thespian Society is to further the interests of the educational theatre in the secondary school.

Constantly reminding the Thespians of their high goals are: the theatre masques of comedy and tragedy; also, the Thespian motto, "Act well your part; there all the honour lies."

The year gleaned individuality from a variety of

Left—At first a sensation, but now a usual sight to Mount Gilead students is the oil well at left on the Edison baseball diamond. The discovery of oil on school property has led to many speculations as to what the school can do with the revenue.

Below—Mr. Karle is usually around to get pictures of coaches being dunked after athletic victories, but this time the players "cooled him off" with Mr. White at the helm of the shutter.

personalities, fashions, fads, and events

Right—Right in style for the school parade are the "Shiftless" girls at right—Mary Detwiler, Cinda Holt, Jean Scott, Jo Sierritt, Marlene Halbert, and Judy Strait

Below—"Well, cool it, Dad!" quoth the Beats as they abounded at a Y-Teen party. Marlee Carmean, Pam Geyer, and Barbara Craven provided leadership for the group.

Below right—Not to be outdone by the students, Mr. Campbell donned a beagle wig and joined in the merri-ment at a faculty-student basketball game.

Pomp, circumstance

and togetherness form a cross-section of the year's distinctness

Left center - Judy Dalrymple certainly wishes fewer students would be absent especially when she has to enter their names in the attendance register.

Moods and Minds set School-Life pace

Right center—There's that telescope again and Don Staiger is girl watching this time.

The halls are empty—almost!

about that closer look . . .

The time has come to put away the symbolic microscope. The year was filled with the usual number of fads, such as the Bird, the shift dress, and The Beatles. Common topics of student conversations were athletic victories and defeats, numerous scholastic accomplishments, progress of the new campus-type high school, and news events which directly affected the lives of the students. All will look back on this year and remember the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, the deaths of General Douglas MacArthur and Prime Minister Nehru of India, the withdrawal of Astronaut John F. Glenn from the senatorial race, the birth of the Fischer Quints, and locally, the continuance of the oil boom.

The students, affected variously by these events, are pictured in the book at study, at play, and in serious moments.

We wish to extend our sincere appreciation to our fellow staff members, advertising patrons, photographers, and you, the subscriber, for making this book possible. It is our hope that you will treasure this volume and its many memories. The year has departed, but its essence will linger through many scenes captured especially for you.

PATRICIA ROBINSON and VIRGINIA WIELAND
